VOICE OF THE BRIGHAM YOUNG UNIVERSITY COMMUNITY

Vol. 9, No. 20 | Friday, Oct. 19, 1956 | Provo, Utah

Student-Faculty Group Probe Ticket Methods

A joint student-faculty committee has been selected to conduct hearings on the method of ticket distribution to Brigham Young University athletic events.

Chairmaned by Athletic Director Edwin R. Kimball, the committee consists of four student and six faculty representatives.

Set up under the sponsorship of the BYU Athletic Council, the committee will head complaints of both student and faculty members concerning the distribution of tickets to football and basketball games.

In the past there have been charges that ticket distribution of basketball games, which are distributed only on nights of the games, was not the most satisfactory method.

Student committee members are Richard Barnes, Taft, Calif.; Howard Ellison, Lethbrbidge, Alta., Can.; Monroe McKay, student body president, Huntsville, and Neal Christensen, Lehi.

Faculty members include Kimball, Dr. Ray Canning, Dean of Students Wesley P. Lloyd, Dr. Dean K. Fuhriman, Dave Schulthess, and Floyd R. Taylor.

Kimball explained that a similar committee's recommendations for the present procedures were adopted two years ago.

"We are going to see if there is a more satisfactory way to handle the tickets," he said in pointing out the problems connected with limited seating and the handling of tickets for students, faculty and the public.

Prep Journalists Gather at BYU

"TODAY'S YOUTH—Tomorrow's Truth" is the theme of the 21st annual Utah School Journalism Conference to be held on the Brigham Young University campus Saturday.

Robert Fisler, circulation and promotion director for Sports Illustrated Magazine will be the featured speaker when 500 Utah high school students gather for discussions about problems and techniques of high school journalism.

Representatives of commercial newspapers, printing specialists, campus publications, and secondary school journalism directors will be among specialists directing 14 separate workshop sessions.

GUEST SPEAKERS will include Theron Luke, city editor, Provo Daily Herald; Elaine Cannon, 'teen columnist, Deseret News and Salt Lake Telegram; Hayes Gory, city editor, and Dan Valentine, columnist, The Salt Lake Tribune and Bob Morgan, ZCMI Duplicating Division.

Other guest speakers will be representatives from Biddulph-Stum Photo Studios, Provo; Dan Baker, principal, West High School, Salt Lake City; Dr. A. Smith Pond, Dean of BYU College of Humanities and Social Sciences, Mrs. Stella H. Oaks, Provo City School District public relations director and Rupert M. Blackham, journalism director, Bear River High School.

BYU FACULTY members and Daily Universe and Banyan staff members will also assist with workshop sessions.

The conference opens with registration at 9 a. m. Exhibits may be viewed until the first general session at 10 a. m. with Fisler as the main speaker.

Workshop sessions for publications editors, writers, photographers, and business managers will be scheduled throughout the day, according to Wayne Carle, BYU journalism instructor, chairman of the conference.

Visiting teachers and speakers will be guests of BYU at a noon luncheon and meeting of the Utah Association of Journalism Directors.

Scholarships and other awards totaling more than $200 will go to high school writers as part of the conference. Two first prizes of $70, two second prizes of $30 and six other awards will go to participants in the conference's news writing and editorial contests. Grants will be used for BYU tuition for the winners.

Robert Fisler, circulation and promotion director for Sports Illustrated magazine will deliver a lecture illustrated with 80 prize winning slides from his magazine Friday at 4:10 p. m. in room 260 Eyring Science Center.

The lecture is sponsored by the Brigham Young University Press Club, Athletic Department and Journalism Department.

Scholarships and wards in editorial writing will be provided by The Salt Lake Tribune, and similar awards in news writing will be given by the Deseret News and Salt Lake Telegram.

According to Dr. Oliver R. Smith, Chairman of the BYU Journalism Department and contest chairman, a panel of professional judges will select winners of the contests.

Train to Denver Possibility for Nov. 10 Game

TENTATIVE approval has been granted for a student train to the Denver University football game Nov. 10.

A special train would leave Provo about 5:30 p. m., Nov. 9, arriving in Denver the following mornng about 8 o'clock. It would leave Denver in time to arrive in Provo by 7:30 a. m. Nov. 11.

DENVER U. will play its homecoming game against Brigham Young University Saturday afternoon. BYU is expected to be represented in Denver's homecoming parade Saturday morning.

According to Dr. Henry L. Isaksen, student coordinator, estimated cost of the trip is $19 per student. This will probably not include meals, he said.

NEGOTIATIONS are being made to provide meals at a discount through the Denver University Student Union.

Tentative plans concerning the trip were presented to the studentbody at Thursday morning's assembly by Neal Christensen, Pep Committee Chairman.

According to Dr. Isaksen, final approval will depend on the sale of a minimum number of tickets for the excursion.

Friday Final Day to Vote for Queen

3 Polling Places Set for Students

Friday is the last day Brigham Young University students may vote for Homecoming queen.

Polls will be open in the Smith and McKay buildings and Eyring Science Center from 8 a. m. to 3 p. m. Janis Hull, election committee chairman, reminds everyone to bring their studentbody cards when they vote.

Homecoming Queen candidates are Nellissa Crowley, Glendale, Calif.; Claudia Sedgwick, Riverside, Calif.; Jan Markstaller, Portland, Ore.; Klea Haynie, Los Angeles, Calif.; LaDeane Olsen, Provo; Kay Brockbank, Provo.

Results of the studentbody election for queen are expected to be announced in Monday's Daily Universe.

'Desperate' Drama Shows Miscasting, Haste, Critic Avers

by Richard Kramer
Daily Universe Drama Critic

"The Desperate Hours" proved to be one of the low points in the dramatic records of Brigham Young University.

Talent was evident in all the characters, but so was miscasting. Perhaps this play was too difficult for the first production. There were definite traces of hurriedness in planning and rehearsing.

The first night was smooth and no major blunders were noticeable. The scenery was distinct and showed signs of imagination although there were several small but important errors, such as the clock which read ten after twelve during the biggest part of the play's running time.

As mentioned the characters did show signs of talent but were forced to use them in wrong roles. Too many times did they reach a climax or high point and stay there allowing little or no variation. This resulted in a fall of climax at the play's suspenseful ending.

The opening night's crowd was large but not overflowing. Many times during the performance the audience would laugh at the supposedly serious and dramatic sequences.

This being the first production of the year will perhaps make for better plays in the months to come. Plays that will live up to the high standards of dramatics at BYU.

National Student Group Worker Tells of Membership Advantage

by Richard Kramer
Daily Universe Writer

IMPORTANCE of the National Student Association to Brigham Young University was stressed to the studentbody Senate Wednesday.

Murray McInnes, NSA representative for BYU, said the purpose of the NSA is to discuss problems and to adopt resolutions relating to better policies and forms of student government."

McInnes and Studentbody President Monroe McKay were Brigham Young University's delegation to the ninth annual NSA meet in Chicago this summer.

BYU IS A MEMBER of the Rocky Mountain Region. This includes New Mexico, Colorado, and Utah. It is supposed, however, that if two additional Utah schools join NSA, Utah could have its own region.

NSA is divided into four commissions. Student affairs, dealing with student parking, student unions, etc.; education affairs, concerning faculty-student relations; student government, which Monroe McKay attended, and international affairs, dealing with exchange students and other international affairs.

Both McInnes and McKay were "very well received and met numerous students who were surprisingly interested in the "Mormons and their college," they said.

MANY PROBLEMS were discussed and debated upon at this convention. One of the major problems debated was that of segregation. A resolution was passed accepting integration for the colleges. Many of the southern colleges represented declined from voting on this issue, McInnes said.

Expenses for this trip and for the delegation were taken from the student fund.

Other Senate business included a bill changing the name of the Rules and Prestige Committee to read Rules Committee.

That's Rich

by Rich Hall

Saturday afternoon's football game at Missoula looms as a crucial match for both ball clubs.

Both teams need this tilt as a safeguard against ending up in the conference cellar, and both will be playing accordingly.

Most prognosticators pick the game a toss-up, saying that if any edge should be given to either team the Grizzlies would get it on that faint intangible known as the home field advantage.

We wandered down to the stadium Wednesday to watch the varsity scrimmage against the freshmen and were very much impressed by what we saw. The varsity has never looked so good in a practice session before.

One would have thought that the Cougar hopes for the rest of the season rested on the Kittens not being allowed to cross the goal line.

The Cat backs were running hard, and moving for some impressive sized hunks of yardage. The line was playing hard, stifling the Kitten offense, and opening large holes to allow the varsity backs running room.

Head Coach Hal Kopp substituted freely, giving his reserves a chance to show their stuff. He also used the alternate unit system against the freshmen, and seemed pleased with the results he received along those lines.

The varsity also threw the ball a lot, indicating that they may take to the airlanes against Montana. The Grizzlies boast a good defensive line, and passing may prove to be the big ground-gainer for the Cats.

If the Cougars play as well Saturday afternoon as they did against the frosh they should be able to break into the Skyline win column this weekend.

The fact that the varsity pretty well had their own way against the freshmen does not remove the shine from the Kitten's armor completely.

The frosh are still in the process of learning what college football is all about, and are still in the mistake-making class.

They did have their moments against the varsity, and also had several standout ball players in the game. Once they get settled down and a little more football-wise they will really give the varsity a run for its money.

The football picture at Brigham Young University continues to look up.

Soccer Club Opens Season Saturday; Host Alemania "B" On North Field

The Brigham Young International Soccer Club will open its season Saturday afternoon against Alemania "B" of the Utah Soccer Association.

The game will be played on the football practice field north of the Fieldhouse at 2 p. m.

According to Howard Hill, Soccer Club president, the BYISC received an invitation last week to join the soccer association in Salt Lake City, but the club declined due to the fact that play in the association began the first part of September.

Cats, Grizzlies Tangle In 'Must Win' Contest

by Jerry Cunningham

Can a Cougar whip a Bear? Harold Kopp, a football coach by profession, answers an emphatic "Yes." And to prove his point, he's taking a band of Brigham Young University Cougars all the way to Missoula where they'll tangle with Montana's Grizzlies Saturday afternoon.

Thrashed three times t year, the rejuvenated Cats w greet the Big Bears with double platoon, "which will su prise a lot of people because our lack of depth in the pas commented Coach Kopp.

"WE'RE STRONGER phy cally than we've been all yea encouraged Kopp. "Ron Jacc sen and Ralph Magliaccio a others have recovered from injuries and tough frosh scri mages showed us what oth could do," were reasons giv by Kopp for his added dep

Noting that Montana led Ut State until the final period wh the Aggies finally wore th down, BYU hopes to capital on superior depth and stami lack of which has plagued t Cougars in the past.

"MORE KIDS in the b game will help the over-all n ral of the team," hoped the C gar mentor. He indicated t the Cougars might throw ball more than they did agai Utah.

Reports from Montana in cate that Coach Jerry Willia has been drilling hard all w on pass defense, a vulnera ity that the Utah Aggies disc ered last Saturday.

THIS IS A "MUST" game both outfits. After three s backs and a scoreless tie, Cougars need this one to going.

On the other side of the c Montana, not beaten badly year, has gone down to f straight defeats and would l to slap BYU on the Skyl doormat.

Cougar Cagers Swamp Coach

by Jerry Cunningham

"If numbers mean anything, we are in! But they don't in basketball, and it will take us two or three weeks to determine just what we've got in the way of material," commented Head Coach Stan Watts after three days of varsity cage drill.

Coaxing the tailend of 48 candidates off the floor after a hectic first session, Coach Watts indicated that the turnout was the "largest I have had since taking over at BYU."

The Cougar head man pointed out that it will take more than numbers to keep the Cougars in the 1956-57 cage race which gets underway in six weeks.

"My biggest worry is at center," said Watts, and fortunately competition will be keen for the pivot slot among such stalwarts as Jack Anderson, 6-6; John Gustin, 6-5; Roy Thacker, 6-5; Keith Pedersen, 6-6; Gary Miles, 6-5; Russ Jones, 6-5; and Bob Ricks, 6-6.
